County Hospital

Draw Me a Picture

The No. 1 paragraph of the week comes from Louis Graves, editor of the Nashville News:

"Down at Biloxi where a campaign has closed down a big gambling industry some 500 to 1,000 persons were thrown out of work in the joint. The news story relates: Workers who lost their jobs are covered by the unemployment compensation program."

My guess is there will be general approval of the Hope Chamber of Commerce announcement yesterday that the Hempstead county hospital project is to be tried without federal aid.

Chamber President Mike Kelly and a committee will ask County Judge C. Cook to proceed with the venture as a $450,000 locally-paid hospital instead of a $900,000 federal-aid job. There's no federal aid now, none in immediate prospect, and the average citizen has a feeling anyway that $1 of local tax money will buy as much public service as $2 loaded with the Washington bureaucrats' "cut."

The county hospital seems to me as good a place as any to have a showdown on the whole, money-federal-aid business. "Federal aid" has degenerated into a political toll road over which no local community works may travel unless they pay tribute to the gabby road-agents who swarm out of Washington as though they owned the turnpike.

We had notice a year ago that some counties still have the courage and gumption to plan their own works and levy their own taxes. In a roundup of news on hospitals of southwest Arkansas this writer reported, during the fall of 1950, that both Howard and LaFayette counties had built modern hospitals without a dime of federal aid. Both counties are smaller in population, have less wealth and taxing power, than Hempstead.

My theory is that every time we say a favorable word for federal aid we are merely polishing up the Washington brass and inviting the collectors to hike the toll-gate charge again. You'll know what I mean come next Thursday. That's November 1. Your income tax will go up again, about 12 or 13 percent more than you are now paying.

I'd like to see Hempstead county build a hospital all southwest Arkansas can be proud of. And the only hospital we can be proud of is one we plan and pay for ourselves. And the local tax with which we finance that hospital is deductible on our income tax returns. If local citizens do their duty every year maybe some of these federal Johnny-Come-Latelies who are so keen about managing every town and county in America will get discouraged and go back home to Palooka, Tenn., and get an honest job—like washing cars or something.

There's a grim humor about that stunt the PTA ladies have thought up for Halloween. For the second year the grade school youngsters are being herded into a Halloween Carnival at Fair park Coliseum, at the particular hour when otherwise they might be scouting the town. But this time something has been added—

Carnival or no carnival some of the kids have a yen to write on windows—on the one night of the year that the law allows kids may possibly write on windows. And the PTA ladies have an answer for that one.

They are putting on a contest for the best window-painting jobs by youngsters advertising the Coliseum carnival. American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and your newspaper, are underwriting the $25 prize pool.

I was asked by one group: "Can the kids decorate The Star's windows?"

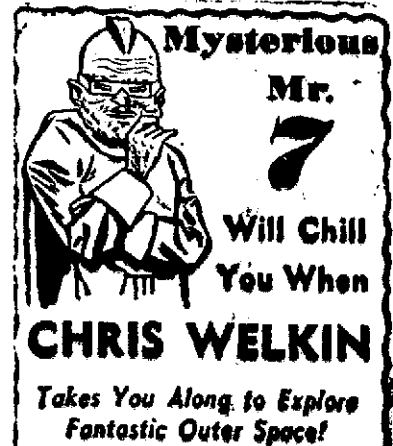

They always have. But this time it is going to be art—art that will wash.

Fulton PTA to Hold Halloween Party Oct. 31

The Fulton Parent Teachers Association of Fulton will sponsor a Halloween party Wednesday, October 31, starting at 6 p. m.

Coronation ceremonies will start promptly at 8 o'clock. A play, "Jimmie Jenkins Halloween" will be presented by the 5th and 6th grades under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Baber. This will be followed by costume judging.

There will be fun for all. Hot dogs and cold drinks will be served.

Fluke Score Gives Camden Win Over Hope

Camden will probably play many more football games but it isn't likely the will ever win another like the did last night in scoring a 7-0 decision over the Bobcats in a Homecoming affair.

With 13 seconds to go Camden's Gattling heaved a high, long 60-yard pass to a couple of Camden players on about the 15 yard line. Both were completely covered by Hope defenders with one batting the ball downward. One Camden man, Ted Bradshaw stumbled and was considered completely out of the play—but the deflected ball went right in his arms and he stumbled on over the goal before falling. Clingman kicked extra point and that was the ball game.

It was a heartbreaker for the Bobcats who slightly outplayed the visitors most of the game. The contest was a bruising battle between lines that wouldn't yield. The Panthers were held to two first downs and only 31 yards rushing the entire first half while Hope rolled up 96 yards.

The Bobcats seriously threatened only once—that in the opening minutes when a beautiful run by Clyde Arnold carried to the Panther 4. Two plunges ate up two yards but a 5 yard penalty put the ball back on the 7 and the much heavier Panther line held.

Defensive standouts for Camden were Urry, McAllister, Plunkett, Davis, Agoo and Greening. For Hope it was Camp, Byers, Williams, Doyle, Barbaree and Church. A penalty nullified a Camden touchdown when Gattling connected on one of his numerous long heaves. However, it was clearly a penalty as the referee's flag was down before the passer ever received the ball. Outside of the fluke touchdown the Panthers never seriously threatened as most of the game was played within the 30-yard markers.

Statistics:
First downs: Hope 6, Camden 7.
Yards rushing: Hope 156, Camden 107.

Yards lost rushing: Hope 30, Camden 31.
Passes: Hope tried 16, completed 2 for 14 yards and had two intercepted. Camden tried 16, completed 4 for 112 yards and had 4 intercepted, one out of bounds.

Penalties: Hope 8 for 40 yards. Camden 7 for 35.

Fumbles: Hope none, recovered 3. Camden recovered none of its 3 fumbles.

HSTC Students to Teach in Hope Schools

Four Henderson State Teachers College student teachers will begin their second week of practice teaching in the Hope public schools Monday, October 29. They are a part of a class of 27 students spending a full year of their senior year off-campus in actual teaching situations, Taylor Lindsey, director of the program announced.

This is the first semester that Henderson students have gone off-campus to live while taking this phase of their teacher education training. While this practice teaching idea is not new to the profession, it is believed to be the first time an Arkansas college has used it, except in the field of home economics.

Five schools were selected for standards required. They are Hope Hot Springs, Little Rock, Arkadelphia and Prescott. Counselors for the practice teachers were chosen from the faculty of each of these schools on a basis of training and experience.

In reference to the new program Dr. D. D. McBrien, president of Henderson State Teachers, said, "We believe that there may be mutual profit to the college, to the participating schools, to the students, and to the education profession from this program."

Supervising teachers from HSTC periodically visit both the student teachers and their counselors, Mr. Lindsey said.

Through this visitation program the students may work under actual conditions, yet be able to receive college supervision at the same time.

The students assigned to Hope schools are: Marcelle West, English; Mary Rushing Gray, American History; Joe W. Campbell, Government and Bettie S. Emmons, fifth grade.

Their counselors in the Hope schools are: Mrs. Joe Amour, Miss Sarah Payton, Mr. Lawrence Martin, and Mrs. F. J. Burroughs.

While in Hope these students are encouraged to take part in school, church and other civic activities, Lindsey said.

Nose of a Shell Assembly Found to Be 'Live'

A "live" nose assembly of a shell was found on a lot on 13th Street yesterday by James Edward Cornelius and several more were reported in the same area.

City police turned it over to a disposal crew, one of whom said it contained enough explosive to blow off a hand.

Officers emphasized today that shells found should be left where they are. Simply notify police on the disposal team at Hope City Hall and they will be removed.

Truman Pledges to Do Best in Inflation Fight

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—President Truman said today that "the tools congress has given us, to curb inflation xxx are not good enough to do the job as it should be done."

But he pledged his administration to do "its best" with the tools at hand.

Mr. Truman's latest attack on the price control law was in a speech prepared for the dedication of a small triangular parkway here to the memory of Samuel Gompers' pioneer American labor leader.

"Scores of special interests have ganged up together for the purpose of securing special short-run advantages for themselves at the expense of all of us," Mr. Truman said. He added:

"These special interests have adopted the principle that price control is all right if it does not require them to absorb a penny more in costs, or forego a penny of profit, no matter how high their profits may be. This is the main idea behind the terrible Capchert amendment, which I tried to have removed from the price control law."

This referred to a provision written into the law to allow certain increases in ceiling prices in proportion to production cost increases since the original price-freeze.

Mr. Truman always refers to the provision as the Capchert amendment, although Senator Capchert (R-Ind) insists he was only one of several senators sponsoring the measure. The administration failed in efforts to eliminate the provision before congress adjourned last week.

The parkway, on Massachusetts avenue near the AFL Headquarters of the American Federation of Labor (AFL), is to be known as Gompers square. A statue of the labor leader was unveiled in the square 15 years ago. President Franklin D. Roosevelt made the dedication address then.

Gompers, a one-time cigar maker, headed the AFL almost continuously from its organization in 1881 until he died in 1924.

Secretary of Labor Tobin and Secretary of the Interior Chapman were invited to take part with Mr. Truman in today's dedication ceremony.

Mr. Truman paid tribute to Gompers and to the fight he said that the AFL leader had made 50 years ago for the working man.

Mr. Truman said that in recent years there have been attempts to revive the ideas against which Gompers fought.

"There has been a campaign to rewrite our labor relations laws so that they would favor employers against their employees," he declared. "There has been a plot to devise legal machinery to cut the strength of organized labor into little pieces, and to entangle each piece in a snare of legal restrictions and red tape."

This was viewed by some labor sources as a slam at the Taft-Hartley labor law which Mr. Truman doesn't like.

Cale School to Be Scene of Halloween Party

The PTA of Cale will sponsor a Halloween Carnival at the school on Wednesday, October 31, beginning at 7 p. m.

Special features include a house of horrors, folk dancing, a headless woman, fortune telling, and many other such attractions. Coffee, pie, sandwiches, and cake will be served in the lunchroom. The public is invited.

Yerger Club to Hold Program
On Monday night, October 29, at Yerger High school auditorium the Room Mothers club of the Yerger Elementary school will sponsor "Elementary night," featuring Halloween plays, songs, and dances. The program will also include a masquerade contest and the raffle of the "Harvest basket."

A Tip to Housewives — Most Europeans Convinced You Are World's Most Spoiled Women

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP) — Europeans are firmly convinced that American wives are the world's most spoiled women.

But it seems to me that recently there has been a trend here in the other direction. Many American wives, tired of being spoiled themselves, want to spoil somebody else—usually the men in their lives.

How do you spoil a husband? Some wives are at a loss as to just how to go about it. They have forgotten the technique. It has been so long since they used it.

There is a right way and a wrong way. An example of the wrong way is the wife who wears of hearing her husband complain of his dish washing chores and hit upon this happy solution:

"I'll surprise him by buying him an electric dishwasher."

That only gave him a new problem—how to pay for the new dishwasher. The first thing a wife must do if she wants to spoil her husband is to cut down the number of his problems.

When he comes home at the end of the day, lady don't burst into a

Anthony Eden Heads British Foreign Policy

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—Winston Churchill announced today that Anthony Eden would become his foreign minister and leader of the House of Commons.

Churchill also announced that in addition to being prime minister he would keep for himself the vital defense ministry.

Other cabinet appointments in the new Conservative government: Lord Woolton, 68, lord president of the council with responsibility for food and agriculture.

Richard Austen Butler, 48, chancellor of the exchequer.

Oliver Lyttelton, 58, colonial secretary.

Sir Walter Monckton, 60, minister of labor.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, 51, home secretary and minister for Welsh affairs.

Marquess of Salisbury, 53, lord privy seal and leader of the house of lords.

Lord Ismay, 68, secretary for commonwealth relations.

In addition, Eden will be deputy prime minister. It was announced that a deputy leader of the house of commons will be appointed to help Eden in that job. This would give Eden more time to devote exclusively to the foreign office.

The appointments were made after ailing King George VI approved them at a special meeting of the privy council at Buckingham palace.

They fill only the top jobs in the cabinet, which under Clement Attlee's labor government had 17 posts.

They must begin at once to size up the serious problems which confront the new administration—the present failure of the nation to pay its way in the world trade by which it lives, the Communist threat, and the taints of defiant segments of a declining empire.

Churchill returned to office last night with a thin majority in the 625-seat house of commons even though the narrowly-defeated labor party won more of the popular vote.

Special police patrolled the streets outside his home in Hyde Park gate, a short, dead-end street, as Churchill conferred in his bedroom with top advisors, including Sir David Maxwell Fyfe and Oliver Lyttelton.

Besides filling the top jobs, Churchill must also name 50 or 60 other ministers and assistant ministers to help plan and carry out his policies.

Yesterday afternoon, a few hours after the outcome of the voting became certain, Prime Minister Clement Attlee went to King George and resigned. Then the king summoned Churchill to Buckingham Palace and asked him to form a new government.

The weak and ailing monarch, still recuperating from a serious lung operation, kept the doughty, 78-year-old Churchill for 45 minutes to talk over policies and cabinet-making.

Then Churchill went home for dinner and a talk with Eden, his deputy leader and a man experienced in conducting British foreign policy.

Thus began the new government of Britain after precisely six years and three months of socialism.

During those years since he was cast from the postwar leadership of the country Churchill has maintained a "shadow cabinet" of men ready to take over high ministerial posts should the Conservatives return to power.

More than 12,000,000 (m) acres of land were treated by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1950 for elimination of gophers and other rodents.

Bomb Kills Official of Mine Union

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 27 (AP)—Several hours after he received a "death" note demanding $2,000, the automobile of Charles McCaddon was blown to bits by a bomb that fatally injured the United Mine Workers union official.

The explosion occurred last night as McCaddon drove along Main street. He died in Wilkes-Barre General hospital at 1 a. m. today.

McCaddon, 49, was president of the UMW Local 8005 for the past 10 years. A Republican leader in nearby Pittston township he also served as a justice of the peace in his home community.

McCaddon's family said he had received several threatening letters recently, the latest — demanding $2,000 or death — came yesterday.

The violent blast rocked the area, left the auto a mass of wrecked, smoking debris. More than 80 windows were broken.

Three small girls—Lois Krahel, eight; her sister, Irene, five, and Irene Olsakowski, 12—suffered cuts and shock. They were walking on the sidewalk only several feet from the McCaddon auto when the bomb tore off the hood.

A police ambulance crew cut McCaddon out of the mangled wreck. His clothing was in shreds.

State police said a powerful explosive had been rigged in McCaddon's car—either in the form of a time bomb or attached to the auto ignition to detonate soon after the car started.

McCaddon's son, Francis, said his father had received a threatening letter yesterday afternoon. McCaddon showed it to state police, then turned it over to postal authorities in Pittston.

Mrs. Mary McCaddon, his wife, said the note read:

"We want $2,000 within a week or you and your son, Francis, will be killed. We know every move you make, and your actions will let you know where to put your money. The Avengers. We mean business."

Police said they could not say yet, pending further investigation, whether the death threats and bombing were related to McCaddon's union affairs his political activities, or his private life.

He was head of the UMW local membership at the Ewen colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., near Pittston.

It was headed for his son's home when the blast occurred. Shortly before he had stopped at a tavern, made a telephone call to an unknown person. Then he got into his car. He drove three blocks—and boom.

He was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way to a boy on a bicycle and posted a bond.

The accident was investigated by State Officers Guy Downey, Louis Hilton and Assistant Police Chief Willis.

LR to Discipline Two Policemen
Little Rock, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Little Rock civil service commission has ordered Police Chief Marvin Potts to discipline a lieutenant and two policemen.

The council ordered the action after investigating a complaint by Milton Martin, Little Rock businessman, that he had been arrested without justification. Martin added that the officers were abusive.

Officers named by the commission are Lt. J. H. Shirley and Patrolmen B. C. Layne and J. E. White.

The two patrolmen went to Martin's place of business, Sept. 25 to arrest Reece Whiterspoon, an employee of Martin's on a charge of robbery. They also arrested Martin and charged him with interfering with an officer. Both the charges later were dismissed. The patrolmen were under jurisdiction of Lieutenant Shirley.

Chief Potts said he had not decided what action he would take.

Gambling on Again at Hot Springs
Hot Springs, Oct. 27 (AP)—This city's "on again, off again" gambling is on again.

Informed sources said that horse race bookmakers were active and that at least one casino was operating.

Gambling shut down during the three week visit here of New York Gambler Frank Costello—just when it wasn't clear—but has opened up again following Costello's return to New York this week.

The U. S. Geological Survey says the "on again, off again" gambling is on again.

Both animals suffered broken bones and had to be shot by state police. The carcasses were badly damaged.

Investigating officer, G. C. Stewart, said the animals had been identified.

Car Crashes Into Bicycle, Newsboy Hurt
John Paul Newton, 13, Hope, Star newsboy, subbed a broken bicycle shortly after 6 p. m. yesterday when an auto driven by C. H. Hester of McNab hit the bicycle which the youngster was riding. Third and Washington street intersection.

Young Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Newton of 808 West 7th, had just completed his paper route and was on his way home when the accident occurred.

Investigating officers said the car made a left turn under the light and crashed into the bicycle which was traveling straight across the intersection. The youth was thrown to Julia Chester Hospital where he was treated for bruises and broken leg. His condition is considered critical.

Mrs. Hester was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way to a boy on a bicycle and posted a bond.

Dial Telephone System Starts at Midnight

Hope's new dial telephone system, part of a $700,000 expansion program since the end of World War II, will go into operation at midnight tonight, P. J. Poe, manager for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reminded today.

Hundreds of switches will click into place as the new dial equipment is "cut in" and the old manual switchboard is "cut out." And Hope's 2,500 telephones will come to life.

"Today," Poe said, "Hope has in effect two telephone systems. One, the manual switchboard, is now serving the city. The other is the dial system which will be ready to go into operation at midnight."

Poe cautioned telephone subscribers against trying to use their dial telephones before midnight tonight. "Telephone users should continue to place calls on their manual instruments until the cutover," he added. After the cutover, subscribers will hear the hum of the dial tone when they pick up their telephones. When the humming begins, they can dial any number that appears in the new directory and will be connected mechanically with the called party.

"All Hope telephone numbers will be changed at the time dial service begins," Poe reminded. "The mechanical requirements of the dial equipment make this necessary."

Hope's new dial system will be one of the finest in the country and the latest design. Poe said. The equipment was manufactured and installed in the new building at 320 S. Main St. by the Western Electric company.

Supervisor H. H. Smith was in charge of the job. Other supervisors in charge of the 30 installers on the job were E. F. Moto, S. M. Langley, and A. B. Larson.

"Hope's telephone system has come a long way in the last decade," Poe continued. For example, the number of telephones here has more than doubled. In 1940, there had 1,101 telephones compared to the 2,500 it has today.

"The change to a dial system is another big step necessary to provide the kind of service the people of Hope want. We have spent a lot of money, and must spend still more to meet the growing demand for telephone service."

Mrs. Rosenberg Hears Soldiers

Eastern Front, Korea, Oct. 28 (P) — Mrs. Anna Rosenberg sat on a rice paddy dike near Heartbreak City yesterday and got the GI word on conditions in Korea.

"Never have I seen anything like this," said Mrs. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense. "I talked to each of these (20) men and did not receive one single gripe from any of them about the combat condition over here.

"Without exception, each man in the division to whom I talked said the food is good, mail service is good and they are getting plenty of winter clothing."

Accompanied by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, Mrs. Rosenberg arrived at a forward airstrip in a light plane. She wore WAC slacks and an Eisenhower jacket.

Within a few minutes she had cornered 20 battle-hardened enlisted men, lead them away from the officers and invited: "Let's squat and talk it over, fellows." The tumble of artillery fire punctuated her conversation.

A rousing cheer greeted Mrs. Rosenberg when she said the department of defense was seeing more front line stage shows and there will be more girls.

Inspecting GI quarters, Mrs. Rosenberg got down on her hands

To Take Bid Flood Work

Little Rock, Ark. — The Little Rock district engineer has announced he will accept bids soon for about $16.2 million in flood control and stabilization work in Arkansas.

A district official yesterday said the bids would be asked as soon as the district receives official notification of appropriations for the work. He added, however, that actual work "probably will not begin for about two months."

The money is part of about $5 million allotted to Arkansas for appropriation measure signed Wednesday by President Truman.

The remaining $13,183,000 will be for Arkansas projects under supervision of the Tulsa and Vicksburg districts.

Included in the Little Rock district file during an argument.

Police Inspector Edward Reiff said the woman had told officials that Pool had boasted to her "killing a man with a cran handle" north of Little Rock several years ago.

Electric Co-op Denied New Trial

Little Rock, Oct. 27 (AP)—A rural electric co-operative has been denied a new trial in its attempt to obtain customers it once served in areas annexed by the city of Newport.
Pulaski Circuit Judge Guy Amsler yesterday refused to grant a new trial on his reversal of an Arkansas public service commission decision. The commission had ruled that the farmers' electric co-operative of Newport under a 1938 DCS authorization, was entitled to serve customers in two areas annexed by city. Kaenaster Hodges, co-op attorney, said the case would be appealed to the Arkansas Supreme court.

Judge Amsler decided that the Arkansas Power Light Co., holder of the power franchise in Newport since 1921, had the right to serve the areas annexed in 1946 and 1948. Testimony in case stipulated the AP & L agreed to pay market value to the co-operative for the loss of about 45 customers in the disputed areas.

Quits Hot Springs Hospital Board

Hot Springs, Oct. 27 (AP)—J. Albert Robinson of San Pedro, Calif., has resigned as president of the executive board of the Leo N. Levi Memorial hospital here.

The board, meeting here yesterday, accepted Robinson's resignation. He gave ill health as his reason for leaving the post he had held since Oct. 6, 1950.
Mrs. L. H. Harrison of Chicago, board vice president, was appointed to take over Robinson's duties until a successor can be selected.

Must Fight Venereal Disease

Little Rock, Oct. 27 (AP)—Any relaxation of vigilance will insure an increase in venereal diseases, a U. S. public health official has warned.

Dr. Edgar B. Johnwick, director of the public health service center in Hot Springs, Ark., told members of the Arkansas State Organization for Public Health Nurses yesterday that complacency can cost the nation most of its recent gain against VD.

Dr. Johnwick labeled "deplorable" a recent article by Dr. Morris Fishbein, former editor of the American Medical Association Journal, that new drugs and techniques almost have solved the VD problem.

Dr. Johnwick spoke at a luncheon of the Asoplin, a feature of the four-day convention here of the organization, the Arkansas State Nurses Association, the Arkansas League of Nursing Education and the Arkansas State Association of Nurse Anesthetists.

Two-hundred and 75 nurses and 84 students registered for the meeting.

Officers of the ASNNA's new student section, are:
Miss Glendine Williamson, Leo N. Levi Memorial hospital, Hot Springs, president; Miss Carolyn Darby, St. Vincent's Infirmary, Little Rock, first vice president; Miss Lorraine Deane Lemmer, St. Edward's hospital, Fort Smith, second vice president; Miss Pat Nicholson, Arkansas Baptist hospital, Little Rock, secretary; Miss Sue Stone, Levi, treasurer; Miss Lena Mazzanti, St. Vincent's, parliamentarian; Miss Angelina Sarros, Sparks Memorial hospital, Fort Smith, historian; Bob Ardion, Levi, publicity chairman; Miss Ruth White of the Veterans' Administration hospital, North Little Rock, was named faculty advisor.

New officers of the Arkansas League of Nursing Education are:
Miss Marguerite Burt, Little Rock, president; Miss Marion Carter, Little Rock, first vice president; Miss Lila Stienkamp, Little Rock, second vice president; Miss Elva Holland, Little Rock, secretary.

Doctor Who Was Robbed, Is Missing

Nahant, Mass., Oct. 27 (AP)—A state-wide search was on today for Dr. Albert Covner, from whose home three baby-sitters took $18,000 and went on a New York spending spree last week.

Mrs. Covner told police her husband closed his Lynn office at noon yesterday and failed to return home.

A message asking all state policemen to be on the lookout for Dr. Covner's sedan was put on the teletype system early today after an extensive local search.
The three baby-sitters—Robert McCauley, 15, Eileen Jeffrey, 17, and Marilyn Curry, 16—were arrested in New York. They admitted taking the money and told police they spent $3,000 on fine clothes and were outwitted out of the remaining $15,000 by three "sharpies."

Mrs. Covner told police her husband never before failed to show up home without first notifying her. She added she understood the doctor had given his secretary a vacation before closing the office.

Directors at the Lynn hospital, where the 51-year-old Dr. Covner is on the staff, said he notified them he would not be available for consultation for a few days.
Hospital officials said also the missing doctor had told them he arranged with another heart specialist to care for his patients for a while.

Nahant police said Dr. Covner was in a "highly nervous" state since the money was taken from his home. They said he had received many malicious telephone calls both at home and at his office. Robert McCauley had "sat" for the Covners many times. On the night of Oct. 17, the Jeffrey and Curry girls were with her caring for the three-year-old Covner when they decided to take some of Mrs. Covner's clothes and go to New York.

Churchill Win Won't Change Picture

Cairo, Oct. 27 (AP)—Winston Churchill's election victory will not make any difference in Egypt's attitude toward Britain, Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha said last night.

"It makes no difference to us whether Conservative or Labor wins," said El Din. "The only question is that of policy."
Egyptian newspapers commented sarcastically on the Tory victory and warned Churchill that Egypt will not be deflected from pursuing the realization of "her rights, even if the new British government re-

DOROTHY DIX Family Quarrels

Dear Miss Dix: What can you suggest to restore peace between my two grown daughters? Since I have been almost continuously ill since the birth of Betty, the younger daughter, Alice, who is nine years older, has mothered her. Six years ago when Betty had her son, she almost died and Alice spent four weeks with her until she was able to leave the hospital and return home. Later, when Betty had a serious operation, Alice again took over the care of her household. Now comes the problem. A year ago the girls had an argument which should have blown over quickly. Instead, Betty has refused to speak to her sister since, and refuses to let her little boy come to our house if Alice and her husband are here. The child, who is devoted to his Aunt Alice, as well as me, feels this estrangement. How can I bring the girls together?
HILDA M.

Answer: Betty's present attitude toward her sister is a grade A exhibition of ingratitude. No matter what caused the rift between her and Alice, by now it should be forgotten and forgiven. During the four years of this one-sided feud you have probably exhausted every argument at your command to make Betty see the light.

Remind Her Of Son
Have you tried to point out the bad effect her behavior will have on her son? Children learn the principles of human relationships at home, and an atmosphere of jealousy, dislike or ill-feeling of any sort will go far towards producing a maladjusted boy. He has now—as all children have—a strong instinct for family unity; your daughter's attitude will destroy this and she can easily become the object of her own son's dislike. This is the strongest argument I could put forth for her reconciliation with Alice.

Your feelings too, should also be a potent factor, but since this is an obvious angle and one she undoubtedly has met, I would say her filial feelings are not too strongly developed, either.

This petty pose of "not speaking" affected by many people whose only claim to adulthood is physical growth is a good hold-over from childhood. Children at least, get over their little grudges easily, but when a so-called grown-up gets into one of these humors, it spreads with the speed of lightning until the original trifle is completely lost amid a welter of imagined wrongs. The chief reason for the continuance of such a spat is the ingrained dislike of most people to admit they are wrong and to apologize.

Eventually Betty will regret her despicable conduct; I hope her remorse doesn't come too late!

Dear Miss Dix: We have a problem perhaps you can help us solve. Our adopted daughter is expecting to marry soon and as I have never told her she was adopted, I do not know whether I should tell her and her intended husband or not.
J. B. N.

Answer: You realize by now that you committed a great wrong by not telling the girl long ago that she was an adopted child. So much trouble and heartache could be avoided if parents would stop treating adoption as if it were a terrible secret never to be revealed. So much has been written on the subject and many approaches have been suggested that would make the adopted youngster, if anything, feel more secure. Of course the longer the telling is postponed, the more difficult it becomes and the more shock to the child.

In your case, the facts should be presented both to your daughter and her intended husband as soon as possible. Eventually someone will tell her, and surely it is better for you to do it than a stranger. It is truly a wonderful and charitable act to take a helpless child into your home to be raised as your own daughter. It is something to make both parents and youngsters proud, not ashamed or resentful. Your daughter is entitled to begin her new life with full knowledge of what has happened before. Don't delay!

Dear Miss Dix: For the past six months I have been going with a boy 17—one year older than I. He recently left on a two-months vacation. While he was gone, I dated a friend of his. Now I am afraid he will find out and be angry. Should I write and tell him or keep quiet and hope he doesn't find out?
MARTA L. A.

Answer: In the first and most important place, at 16 you are too young to be so involved with a young man that you dare not have another date. Write him, and mention, quite casually if you like, that you have been out with his friend. If he gets angry let him know you are not ready to be tied down to one boy friend, especially when the "one" is on a long vacation. Don't try to keep a secret. It will come out eventually and in your absent boy friend's eyes you will be dishonest as well as unfaithful.

FBI Holds 14 Persons for Embezzlement

Pittsburgh, Oct. 27 (AP)—FBI agents held the 14th person today in embezzlement charges which cover more than $3,000,000 in the past 13 months.

The latest arrested is Paul J. Stratiff, 52-year-old cashier and director of the First National Bank of Indiana (Pa.). He is charged by the FBI with embezzling $30,226 in bank funds.

The arrest by the Pittsburgh office of the FBI last night is the 14th embezzlement case uncovered in Pittsburgh and West Virginia districts.

Special agent Fred Halford said the holding Stratiff admitted taking the money. Stratiff said he knew he was misappropriating the funds but said he had always intended to make the shortage good.

Halford said Stratiff is the second employee of the First National bank to be arrested since Sept. 23. He said the arrest followed the discovery that $40,000 was missing from the bank's cash reserve.

The other banker was Samuel Lewis, an assistant cashier. Lewis was arrested Sept. 25. The FBI said Lewis admitted taking $48,479 but Lewis said he replaced all of the money.

Stratiff's signed statement, the FBI said, related his embezzlement spree began in the early '30's. He said an elderly woman gave him a number of government bonds for safekeeping.

Stratiff told the FBI that in 1933 or 1934 Margaret Craighead from Florida wrote him to sell the bonds if he thought advisable.

In 1935, Stratiff said, he sold the bonds and tried to communicate with Miss Craighead. Her letters were returned and he assumed she was dead.
He told the FBI that in 1936 he opened a checking account under the name of "Paul J. Stratiff, agent." He deposited $16,501 in this account from the sale of the bonds.

His next move, Stratiff said, came in April, 1936 when he opened a personal savings account in the name of "Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Stratiff, special." He said he transferred the money from the agents' account to the "special."

From then until March, 1945 the FBI says, Stratiff drew on this account for his personal use. He told the FBI the original temptation was the cost of education for his daughter, Ethel, who since has died.

The FBI says Stratiff also stated he resorted to the practice of tapping bank funds by cashing checks drawn on his personal checking account.

Stratiff indicated that funds embezzled by the later method reached a total of $13,691 by Sept. 12, 1951. He said he made good the shortage on Sept. 24 by substituting a check for the amount drawn on the McGregor Motor Co. of Indiana, in which he was a partner.

Stratiff waived a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass and was jailed in default of $25,000 bond. He will be given a hearing Tuesday.

He had been employed as cashier of the bank since 1933 and was past president of the Indiana Rotary club. His arrest followed by two days the $338,901 defalcation of the federal credit union at Kaufman's department store in Pittsburgh which resulted in the arrest of two union officers and a woman office manager. The union operated independently of the store.

HEADS LIBRARIANS
Little Rock, Oct. 27 (AP)—Miss Gladys Sachse of Arkansas state Teachers college, Conway, has been elected president of the Arkansas Library association.
The organization closed its annual convention here yesterday. Other officers are:
Miss Mary Sue Shepherd, Little Rock, Pulaski county librarian, vice president; Mrs. J. B. Abraham, Conoke, secretary; and Mrs. B. G. Mosley, Pine Bluff, treasurer.

Mail GI Xmas Packages Now

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—The post office department today issued an urgent reminder: Get those Korean Christmas package mailings off next week.

The department said that in view of an extremely heavy volume of mail moving into the Far East, it figured that Nov. 1 is the deadline for the millions of Christmas parcels to American troops fighting in Korea, to assure delivery by Dec. 25.

For sturdy packaging to hold up over the department recommended solid fibre board boxes or double faced corrugated fibre board packing with strong cord and with loose flaps sealed with gummed tape.

Also important, department officials said, is accurate addressing, hand-printed right on the wrapping.

Milk Trucks Again Roll in New York

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—Milk trucks started rolling again today to serve 12,000,000 consumers in the metropolitan area following settlement of a one-day strike in the industry.

The dairies said they hoped for normal or near-normal deliveries today in the three-state area. Fifteen thousand drivers and dairy workers employed by 200 companies won a "package" increase of $10.00 a week in an agreement which ended the strike late yesterday.

Consumers apparently will have to pay more for their milk within a matter of days—not as a result of the strike, however.

The office of price stabilization has been working on a new pricing order. Unofficial estimates of the expected hike ranged from one cent to two cents a quart, with influential industry representatives expecting it to be one and a half cents.

There were reports that the employers granted the pay increase because they felt sure of the price increase.
Deliveries were cut off yesterday with the exception of emergency service to hospitals, schools, various other institutions and military installations.

A great number of stores had no milk to sell. Rationing was imposed by those which had some supplies. Wage stabilization board approval is needed for the agreement, basis of a new two-year contract to replace one which expired Wednesday.

The truck area included New York City, Long Island, Westchester and Rockland counties, N. Y.; a large part of northern New Jersey and the southwestern corner of Connecticut.
Official end of the strike was announced.

ways wanted to take you to the Chez Nous Choppery, and that's where we're going."

When it's time to leave, don't stand by the door like a house waiting to be harnessed. Get your own coat out of the closet and put it on all by yourself, for a change. And don't give him a glare if he's slow to open the door. Reach out, grab the knob firmly, and open the door yourself. You'd be surprised at the power you have in your strong womanly hands.

That's the basic principle. If you want to spoil your husband, start doing for yourself again all the small things you have been forcing him to do as duties all the years of your wedded life. Go even further—light up his cigaret once in a while.

One thing more. Husbands like to be courted. They are always saying to themselves:

"My wife takes me for granted. I know she loves me, but she never tells me so any more."

So tell the big lug. Write little love notes and hide them in his pockets. Flirt with him when he pulls out a handkerchief at his office and finds in it a note saying, "I always did like the way your nostrils flare, Oswald." He will go right into the men's room and have his nostrils at himself in the mirror for half an hour, thrilled to the soul that you remember.

That's all there is to it, lady. Just make him feel important. And the more you spoil him the more your dream boy will want to spoil you, too. That'll be your reward—he'll start courting you all over again and mean it.

announced by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri yesterday after representatives of the companies and of five locals of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters had been in continuous session for almost 27 hours. The teamsters represents independent dairy workers as well as drivers. The walkout started at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

The mayor said the expected increase in the price of milk had not been discussed in the bargaining sessions. "That is a federal matter," he said.

The mayor said the expected increase in the price of milk had not been discussed in the bargaining sessions. "That is a federal matter," he said.

New Yorkers now generally pay 24 cents a quart for home-delivered milk and 21 1/2 cents for store milk.

Three Cagers Are Freed on Bail

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — Ralph Bonie, Alex Groza and Dale Barnard, former University of Kentucky basketball stars, are free on bail today after pleading innocent on charges of fixing a 1949 tournament game.

The three indicted players were indicted yesterday on charges of fixing the March 14, 1949 game against Loyola of Chicago. They were also charged with conspiracy covering Kentucky's 1948-49 schedule.

The players pleaded innocent and were released on $10,000 bail each. Five alleged fixers also were indicted and released on bail ranging from $2,500 to $10,000.

Groza, Bonie and Barnard are presently charged with "fixing" points in the National Invitational tournament game against Loyola in Madison Square Garden, Louisville, which was held on March 14, 1949.

Groza allegedly received $1,000 and Barnard and Bonie $500 each for shoving the point spread. Kentucky was a 10 to 12 point favorite.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor said the players also admitted receiving $100 each for these games they won by more than the point spread. The three games were against Duquesne, Jan. 22, 1949; Vanderbilt, Jan. 31, 1949 and St. John's Brooklyn Dec. 19, 1948.

District Attorney Frank Hogan also said the three had admitted receiving $500 apiece for holding the score down on the 1949 game against Tennessee, but this game was not mentioned in the indictment.

The alleged fixers indicted were Nicholas English; Anthony English, his brother; Saul Feltberg; Marvin Mansberg and Nathaniel Brown. Mansberg was released on $2,500 bail and the others on $10,000 each.

"Star, oh Star!" My whisper couldn't have been heard across the tip, yet she awoke. Her great green eyes were dark with pain, her face hollow and drawn skin-tight over the slanting cheekbones. She said no word, reaching up like a sleepy child to take me in her arms. I could feel the hot fever in them as they circled my neck.

"Star, listen. Do you know me? Do you hear me?"

"Yes, Oh yes, Cetan. You have come for me, have you, Cetan? I shall not be long. I—"

"Star, listen to me. Get rid of Tasina. Hurry. Do you understand? Send her for water. Do it, Star. Send her away." She nodded, called out, "Mother, Mother, come in to me."

I flattened against the wall behind a pile of buffalo robes. The flat, dark face showed in the flap opening. "You called, child?"

"Mother, I must have water. Fresh. Medicine water. Bring it from the creek."

"Aye, you shall have it." Quickly, she was gone, padding through the dark toward Medicine Creek.

She put down a bundle in her arms. A quivering cry lifted every hair on my head.

My beautiful, poor, wasted Star was in my arms then, my tears splashing, shamelessly into the dark glory of her hair.

"Star, you—you are all right? I am going to die, Cetan?" She was calm now, her eyes clear. "And in peace now that you are here. Oh, Cetan, I love you more than the breath which feeds my life. When I heard you had died with Yellow Hair, I—"

"Star, hear me now, I am alive. Believe that. I have escaped, feigning death. It has happened before. But I cannot stay. They think they burned me on the burial scaffold. Listen, Star—"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — It's hard to tell whether Bob Hoffman is writing about politics or weightlifting. But since Bob is a guy who has spent some $200,000, according to American weightlifting team, all over the globe, you can assume that sport is uppermost in his mind.

Hoffman currently is in Milan with a team for the world championships. "The Russians haven't arrived yet and I will be surprised if they do come because our team is too strong," Bob says in a few days' time.

This city is strongly anti-American, frequent riots, shouting for the American to go home. It will be a tough battle with the Italian and the Russian state police and soldiers patrolling the city.

And of the three, only Illinois, fighting with Northwestern to represent the Big Ten in today met faced opposition as the collective football season reached the halfway point.

Northwestern and Stanford — each scheduled and each looking for a spot in the Rose Bowl — today met in a clash of the collective football season reached the halfway point.

Northwestern (4-0-0) faced its toughest assignment to date in a clash with the Wisconsin team. The sports tabbed Wisconsin a near-busy favorite.

Stanford (4-0-0) also was an underdog, but Washington, featuring the running of hurdler's Hugh McElenny, was a five-point pick to beat the Indians' Rose Bowl hopes.

Six-ranked Southern California, which leads the Pacific Coast conference with four straight wins, stepped outside league play and entertained Texas Christian.

These weren't the only important games, however.

The East, for instance, had its toughest test in a battle of the underdogs at Princeton, N. J. This one, for the Ivy League title, was rated a pick "for a while."

Then there's the tilt at Nashville between third-ranked Georgia Tech and hot-and-cold Vanderbilt. This flamed to be an aerial battle between Tech's Darrell Crawford and Bill Wade of Vandy. Tech was a 13-point pick to make it six straight.

The top two teams in the AP poll, Tennessee and Michigan State, figured to have a couple of soft games. Tennessee met Tennessee Tech while Michigan State played host to weak Pittsburgh.

Maryland, No. 5, ruled a two-hundred choice to defeat Louisiana State and make it five in a row in a night game at Baton Rouge.

Bayler (4-0-0) was another unbeaten team which went into action on the short end of the odds. The seventh-ranked Bears were two-point underdogs to the Texas Aggies, who figured to rebound from last week's loss to TCU.

California, which slipped from first to ninth place after losing to Southern Cal, was a 13-point pick over Oregon State.

And Texas, No. 10, ruled a 7-12-point favorite to stop the pesky Rice Owls.

Other top games, by sections: East — Colgate at Yale, Dartmouth at Harvard, West Virginia at Penn State, Fordham at Syracuse, Boston U. at Temple, Holy Cross at Brown, Connecticut at Buffalo, Bucknell at Lafayette, NYU at Lehigh, Columbia at Army, Navy at Penn.

Midwest — Iowa State at Drake, Kansas State at Kansas, Minnesota at Michigan, Nebraska at Missouri, Iowa at Ohio State, Miami (O.) at Marquette, Purdue at Notre Dame, Colorado at Oklahoma.

South — South Carolina at Virginia at Duke, Kentucky at Florida, Alabama at Mississippi State, Wake Forest at Wake Forest, Wake Forest at Wake Forest.

It is no use, Cetan. I am done. A hard child raked her frame. "I care not, even so, for he is alive. Your son is alive, Cetan, and so beautiful." I had forgotten the baby.

"Tasina will return quickly." My words sped with desperation. "I cannot be here."

"Cetan—" Another trembling shudder ran over her. "Will you leave me now? Will you go out, letting Yunko-lo come in? Cetan, you are my life, Cetan!"

SHE was going now. Her arms clamped in spasms around me, then slackened away. I let her back on the robe, tucked it gently around her still figure.

She still breathed, very thinly. A flash of high color mounted her cheeks, bringing fleetly with it the remembered berry-blush of other days. For a magic moment then, I saw the face which guided me safely past Death's gate those many moons ago; which gazed in startlement up at me that long-gone morning in the forest above the bathing pool; which peered, wide-eyed, at me in Statemeyer's fugitive camp; which blazed at me that wild, fire-lit instant when I flung the heart of the renegade into the flames at her feet; the face which had blessed my last sight on a thousand nights since.

The face whose memory I would take with me as the most beautiful thing God ever made and man ever looked upon.

I scarcely heard her voice. "Cetan, take the charm." Her pale hand moved to the Aztec amulet around her neck. "It is for him. Name him 'Hawk' after his sire."

She paused, a quiet peace lighting her features. The thin arms reached out.

"Cetan—my love."

That haunting half-smile was on her curving lips. I covered them with mine. And when I brought my lips away, hers still held their graceful, taunting arc. Would hold it forever.

Yunko-lo had entered behind me as I held her.

I picked up the bundle containing my Indian son and went out into the night.

Louis Knocked Out by Young Maricano

New York, Oct. 27 (AP) — Joe Louis is through. Boxing has a new idol today in Rocky Maricano.

It's the old story of the ring. Youth must be served.

At 2:36 of the eighth round in Madison Square Garden last night, the old Brown Bomber was stretched on his back on the apron of the ring in a pathetic finish to one of the most fabulous stories in all sports.

Today, 27-year-old Rocky, a one-time soldier, shoo-worker, and ditch-digger with little more than three years of professional fighting behind him, was the toast of the town, the man of the hour.

The big brass of the International Boxing club will sit down today with Rocky, born Rocco Marchegiano on Sept. 1, 1924, and discuss future plans for the new young figure of the ring.

He'll be offered a shot at Edward Charles, the ex-champion, for February or March and a possible title shot with Jersey Joe Walcott next summer.

For Louis an old man of the ring at 37-12 years, it's the end of the long trail that began 17 years ago and brought him to the world's heavyweight championship and ring earnings of more than $4,500,000. Now the road turns in another direction.

It was only the third loss in Joe's 71-bout career and the second knockout. He was kayoed in 12 by Max Baer in 1936.

For his victory, Maricano collected his biggest payday, about $44,000. Louis received about $132,000. Rocky got 15 per cent of the net and the $185,000 radio-TV receipts. Louis got 45 per cent.

Joe said he'd wait until Monday to make a decision about his fighting future.

"I don't want to make a hasty decision," he said through puffed lips in his dressing room.

He doesn't have to say it though. The crowd of 17,241 (gross gate $152,345) in the Garden and the 50,000,000 or more others who watched via a coast-to-coast telecast, know the answer.

Now the talk is all Rocky, the new wow of boxing, the hit of television. Thirty-eight fights, thirty-eight victories, 33 knockouts, almost a carbon copy of the string hung up by the once magnificent Brown Bomber.

And Rocky tore a page out of Louis' book in writing finish to it. He belted the balding Joe with rights to the kidneys to take the drive out of his legs, he rushed him until the Bomber was befuddled and he finished him with the fury of the old Louis.

Leading on the scorecards of all three officials going into the eighth round, the swarthy, 26-year-old Brockton (Mass.) belter, lore out of his corner with the advice of Trainer Charley Goldman ringing in his ears.

"Get him now."

He did. A scowl on his face, Rocky blazed after the tiring champ. A left hook flush to the jaw dropped Louis. At two, he was on one knee while he listened to Referee Ruby Goldstein's count. At eight he was up. . . but he was done.

Maricano stormed after him. A right to the head dazed the Bomber. He tottered back against the ropes and his hands fell to his sides. Then a crunching left hook to the chin and a right to the head and Joe started down.

As the fall began, Rocky ripped another left hook to the body and Louis went through the ropes and on to the apron of the ring on his back. It was the way the Brown Bomber of yester-year used to do it. Too. But then while they're going and then they can't get up.

Goldstein took one look at the helpless champion and spared him a count. He waved his arms and it was all over.

Louis' comment on the big punch:

"I saw the right hand coming, but I couldn't do anything about it. I was awfully tired. I'm too old I guess."

New York, Oct. 26—Some priests have condemned my conclusion that unionism, as we know it in the United States, is fundamentally bad. Not all of them were sincere, for some were trying to make time with the real body of American labor to recruit a loss of ground to the Communists in the early days of the struggle for better wages. The clergy were caught flat-footed during the organizing days of the C. I. O., whose violent crimes against constituted authority also recoiled to the benefit of the A. F. of L. in many important areas. My authority for the statement that not all of the priests concerned in this work are sincere is a Jewish father who professes not to be publicly identified. He agreed with me that the Communists got the jump in the "thirties and that it would be a futile approach by the new group of labor missionaries to discuss the faults of unionism, however bad.

There is no fault in my thesis. Our unionism is actually a political union movement run by very few men for political objectives. All these organizations admit that they are unable to operate within the Constitution of the United States, the state constitutions and the public laws. They all claim that unions deserve special privileges and immunities which must override certain rights of about 90 per cent of the citizens who are not union members. That is not an exaggeration of the proportions. The unions claim about 15 million members, or subjects, as I insist they should be called, inasmuch as it is admitted that voluntarism doesn't exist and probably would be fatal. There are not as many as 15 million members but even if there were and none of them are unwilling captives the total membership would be only one-tenth of our total population.

I detest and oppose democracy and these people all subscribe to it in a vague way. But where we have a situation in which they flout their own cherished ideal of majority rule, it is shocking to ask us to concede to one-tenth of the population a right to operate beyond the laws governing the rest of us and grant them special discounts on the responsibilities and penalties for atrocious crimes just because they say they cannot exist otherwise. Nevertheless, that is why they have

Cool and Wet Weekend Seen

By The Associated Press

It looked like a wet cool weekend for wide areas in the central and western part of the country. A rain belt extended from the central plains states northeastward to southern Lake Michigan today. It was cool from the northern Rockies eastward to the Great Lakes region and southward to the central plains. Temperatures were below freezing in many areas. A low of 14 above was reported at Jamestown, N. D. It also was on the cool side in the Pacific Northwest.

Some rain also fell in the central Rockies today but it was generally fair weather over other areas. Mild weather continued from the Gulf States northeastward to southern New England. Temperatures climbed into the 80's yesterday in some sections with a high of 84 at New Orleans and 88 at Preston, Tex. The day's high at Devils Lake, N. D., was 28.

tion of any union consistent with the American constitution. It makes no difference what interpretation any priest shall put upon any ecclesiastical. These are not binding on the whole people of the United States. Moreover, they do not mean what some priests say they mean. It is one thing to exhort workers to join unions as several popes have done. It is another thing to drive them into compounds with clubs as the C. I. O. did in Michigan or to achieve the same effect by other cruel coercion.

The only union acceptable under our laws and our society is one which will confine itself strictly to its own narrow business. They have no right to "representation" in government because they bring no credentials from the people as a whole. The spurious credentials which they do bring from their subjects represent the selfish demands of a self-serving element and a small minority at that. They should be forbidden by law to interfere in foreign policy and foreign relations.

No union system compatible with our laws and our liberties can be created under federal protection and patronage. Unions must exist for and by themselves without any support or privilege from the public governments, national state or local. When labor is willing and able to try that, the whole population will be surprisingly cordial.

Attorney Hustled Out of Hearing

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Deputy marshal hustled a New York labor union attorney from a senate hearing yesterday after the chairman ordered them to "throw that damn scum out of here."

The official heave-ho was given Victor Rabinowitz, counsel for an independent union accused of communistic leanings. The order was given the deputy marshals by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), chairman of the subcommittee.

Bathtubs Scarce, Say Defense Men

Washington, Oct. 27 (AP)—Defense production officials say there just are not enough bathtubs, and other plumbing supplies, to put into homes that might otherwise be built.

The officials said it looked like a choice between allocating more scarce brass to the plumbing industry, or curtailing home building. They said nothing would be done, probably, either way until spring.

The officials, who asked not to be named, made their comments at a meeting of defense production administration and national production authority officials with business news editors.

Royal Couple to Cross Canada

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 27 (AP)—Rested and refreshed after a two-day sojourn in a swank British Columbia lodge, Princess Elizabeth and Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, were retracing their route across Canada today.

The British royal couple will wind up in Washington, D. C. Cheering crowds saw them off here yesterday as they drove to their train. They had debarked earlier from a Canadian destroyer that brought them from their Vancouver island retreat.

They stopped here only momentarily as Mayor and Mrs. Fred Humie bade them farewell. Their next stop is Edmonton, Alberta.

AT MIDNIGHT

Your new dial telephone comes to life

Beginning at midnight tonight, the dial tone replaces "number, please" when you pick up the receiver of your telephone.

Beginning at midnight tonight, swift, accurate dial equipment begins to handle calls for all of Hope's 2,300 telephones.

USE THE NEW GREEN DIRECTORY

All of today's telephone numbers will be wrong numbers tomorrow. To avoid delay in getting the party you call, look up his new number in the GREEN directory.

Be sure to throw away your old gray directory

If you should dial an old number by mistake, you will get a wrong number or no number at all.

Instructions telling how to dial and how to place emergency calls can be found in the front of the new GREEN directory.
